Jack Lait says in that knowing journal's issue of April 12th—

"The Frohman office presents Alice Brady in an offering that may well make them and the memory of the sainted Charles Frohman proud. As American as 'Lightnin'', 'ZANDER THE GREAT' is a delight—a smashing success that is the combination of an irresistible and brilliant star, a concoction of a kid and a square American story play with laughs, thrills, surprises and suspense—nothing but the primary and principal business of the stage—to ENTERTAIN."

President and Mrs. Harding Starting on Long Trip

CHIEF EXECUTIVE WITH MRS. HARDING AND THE PRESIDENT'S PERSONAL SECRETARY, GEORGE CHRISTIAN, STANDING ON THE BACK PLATFORM OF THE SPECIAL TRAIN THAT STARTED JUNE 20 ON A TRIP ACROSS THE CONTINENT AND THENCE TO ALASKAN TERRITORY, WHERE THE PRESIDENT WILL MAKE AN EXTENDED TOUR OF INSPECTION.

PRESIDENT HARDING and his wife, accompanied by his private Secretary, left Washington at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of June 20 on the transcontinental tour incidental to his visit to Alaska. At Martinsburg, W. Va., and at Cumberland, Md., which points were reached by the Presidential train that same afternoon, there were throngs at the station to give the President a cordial greeting.

When the President's train pulled out of the Union Station in Washington Mr. Harding breathed a sigh of relief. He had worked well into the small hours of the morning in disposing of pardon cases and other public business in preparation for his journey, and he was tired. Besides, the day was the hottest that Washington had experienced this Summer, and the President and the other members of his party felt the wilting effects of the terrific heat.

There was another reason for the President's feeling of relief. He had been rather overworked for weeks, and not the least burdensome of his tasks was the preparation of addresses he will deliver on his tour. Nineteen set speeches have been scheduled, and seven of these were completed before

Mr. Harding left the capital. That was the cause of his satisfaction. Three others are well on their way to completion. Four must be prepared before the President reaches Tacoma, Wash., where he will embark for Alaska on July 5. His speeches at Seattle and other places on the Pacific Coast will not be prepared until he is returning from the Alaskan trip.

Members of the President's immediate party say that the addresses he has completed show a great amount of historical reading and give evidence that he devoted much thought to the proposals which they contain.

There is a suggestion in what is told in this connection that the country may see the President in the light of one who speaks with a voice of authority and asserts himself as the leader of his party. At the same time it is indicated that in none of his addresses will be stressed partisan politics. He will seek to avoid anything of that character, and endeavor to appear before the country in the light of a President of the whole people and not as a politician taking advantage of an opportunity to popularize purely party matters.

Mrs. Harding appears to be in better health than at any time since she entered the White House, and there is every expectation by members of the Presidential party that she will be able to make the entire tour without experiencing any recurrence of her physical troubles.

FOE TO RACE SUICIDE IN JUBILEE PARADE

One of the amusing features of the great industrial parade in New York as part of the jubilee celebration was this of Doc Stork in his proverbial task of bringing a new addition to the city's teeming population. The mammoth bird attracted great attention and was the recipient of applause all along the route. There were scores of other interesting features in the parade, which embraced 15,000 men and women marching down Fifth Avenue to the music of many bands on the afternoon of June 16.

SCHOONER A VERITABLE SHAMBLES

Nine men are reported to have been killed in a fierce battle between Chinese coolies and the crew of the Mary Beatrice, here seen, which arrived in New York Harbor on June 14. Among the dead are two white men, two negroes and five Chinese. It is alleged that the Captain of the vessel deserted her with $5,000 bribe money given him by a number of Chinese to smuggle them into this country from Cuba. After the Captain left the ship it is gathered from what information could be obtained that members of the crew attacked the Chinese with the design of getting from them what money they had left. UNIQUE FORM OF THE OLD GAME OF TUG-OF-WAR

Seniors and juniors at the University of Maryland held an unusual tug-of-war as part of the closing exercises of the school year. The opposing team lined up on either side of a small pond of water and stretched the rope across. At the signal the opposing sides began their war. Slowly the juniors slid into the pond, tugging harder than ever, but to no avail, while the seniors pulled them deeper and deeper into the watery grave of defeat. (Keystone View Co.)

WAR GAME

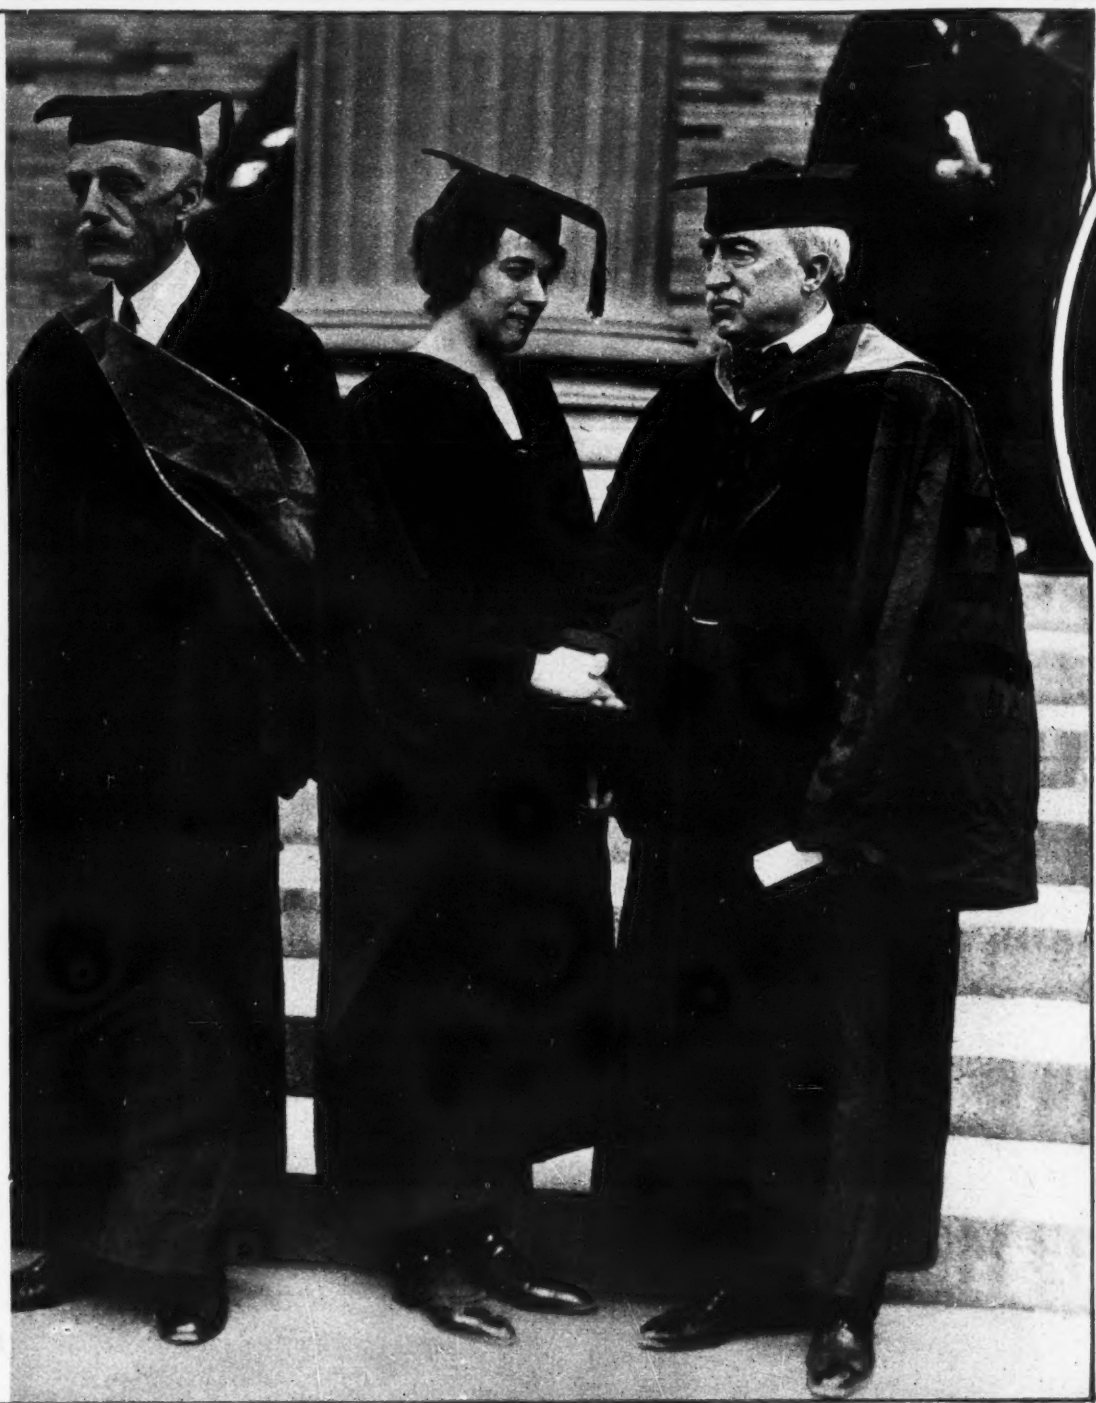

What is said to have been the largest mimic battle ever held in the United States was recently held at Camp Benning, Columbus, Ga. The Government has spent $2,000,000 on the camp, which covers 97,000 acres and spreads over two counties. This pontoon bridge, thrown over the Chattahoochee River in record time, enabled the "trapped" army to escape.

ALTHOUGH the thoughts of America are turned toward peace rather than war, it is reassuring to know that our army forces, small as they are at present, are being kept in the proverbial "pink of condition." Taught by the stern lessons of the late war, our military heads do not propose to be caught unprepared if war should come upon us. An illustration of this preparedness is shown in the recent manoeuvres at Camp Benning, carried out on a mammoth scale. The mimic battle lasted for eight days, finally coming to an end when the "Blue" Army found itself threatened with annihilation and driven back to the Chattahoochee. Theoretically it was "down and out," but the engineers attached to the army worked with such skill and celerity that the Blues were able to escape across the pontoon bridge that sprang up like magic in their rear.

GIFTED STUDENT

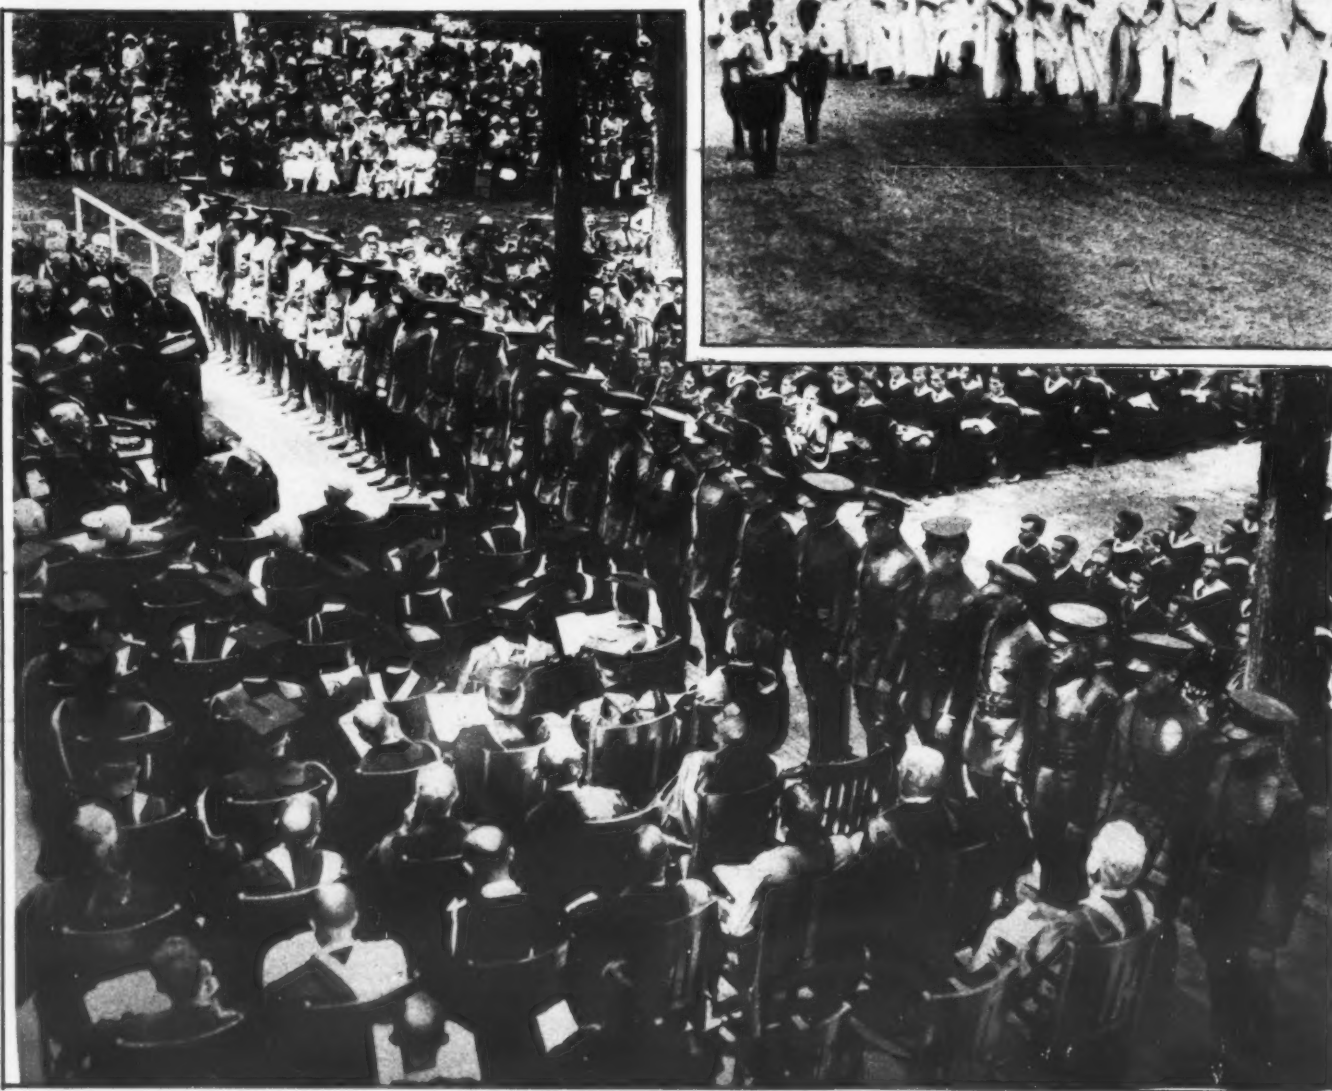

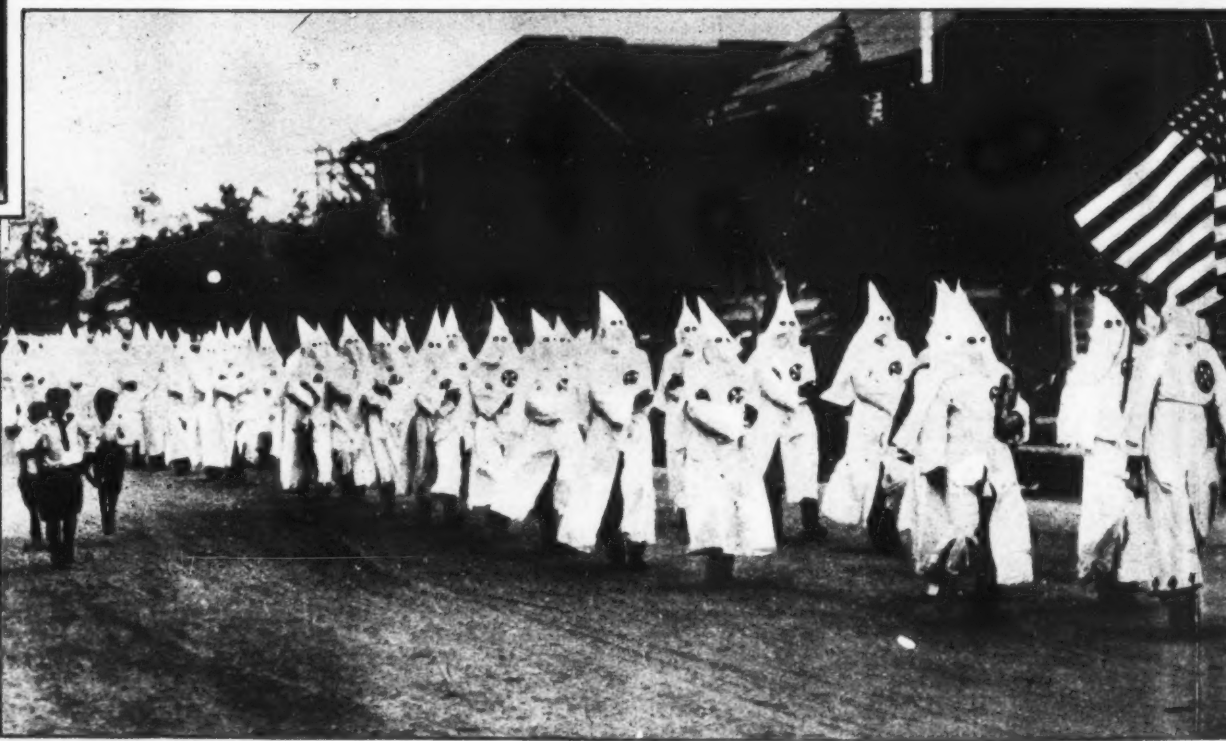

Art is so often associated in the popular mind with "long-haired men and short-haired women" that it is refreshing to find one of the chief art prizes carried off by a perfectly normal girl who abjures "temperament" and has no special sympathy with Greenwich Village or with cubists or futurists. Miss Erna Lange, a 26-year-old young woman of Elizabeth, N. J., is such a rara avis. She is the first woman to win the Chaloner Prize of $6,000, which is to be expended for five years of art study abroad. Her mural decoration, "Lament," which carried off the prize, is said by the critics to show rare promise. Miss Lange won the award over several male competitors. She is a student of the National Academy of Design, and has studied for six years at various art schools. She lives at home and can sew, cook and scrub as well as paint.

NEW WOMAN MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT

QUAINT BUT FETCHING

Miss Berta Erickson, the last Swedish woman to enter the United States under quota regulations this fiscal year. She was picturesquely garbed in native costume with a flowing skirt and tiny bonnet, as worn by her grandmother. (P. & A. Photos.)

NOT many would care to handle the huge python shown on these pages, struggling in the grasp of half a dozen men. They are comparatively safe, however, as long as they can keep the body extended and prevent the monster from getting a grip with his tail around some convenient tree or post. If that happened there would be a scattering in hot haste, for the python strikes like lightning, and once caught in those bone-crushing folds there is no escape.

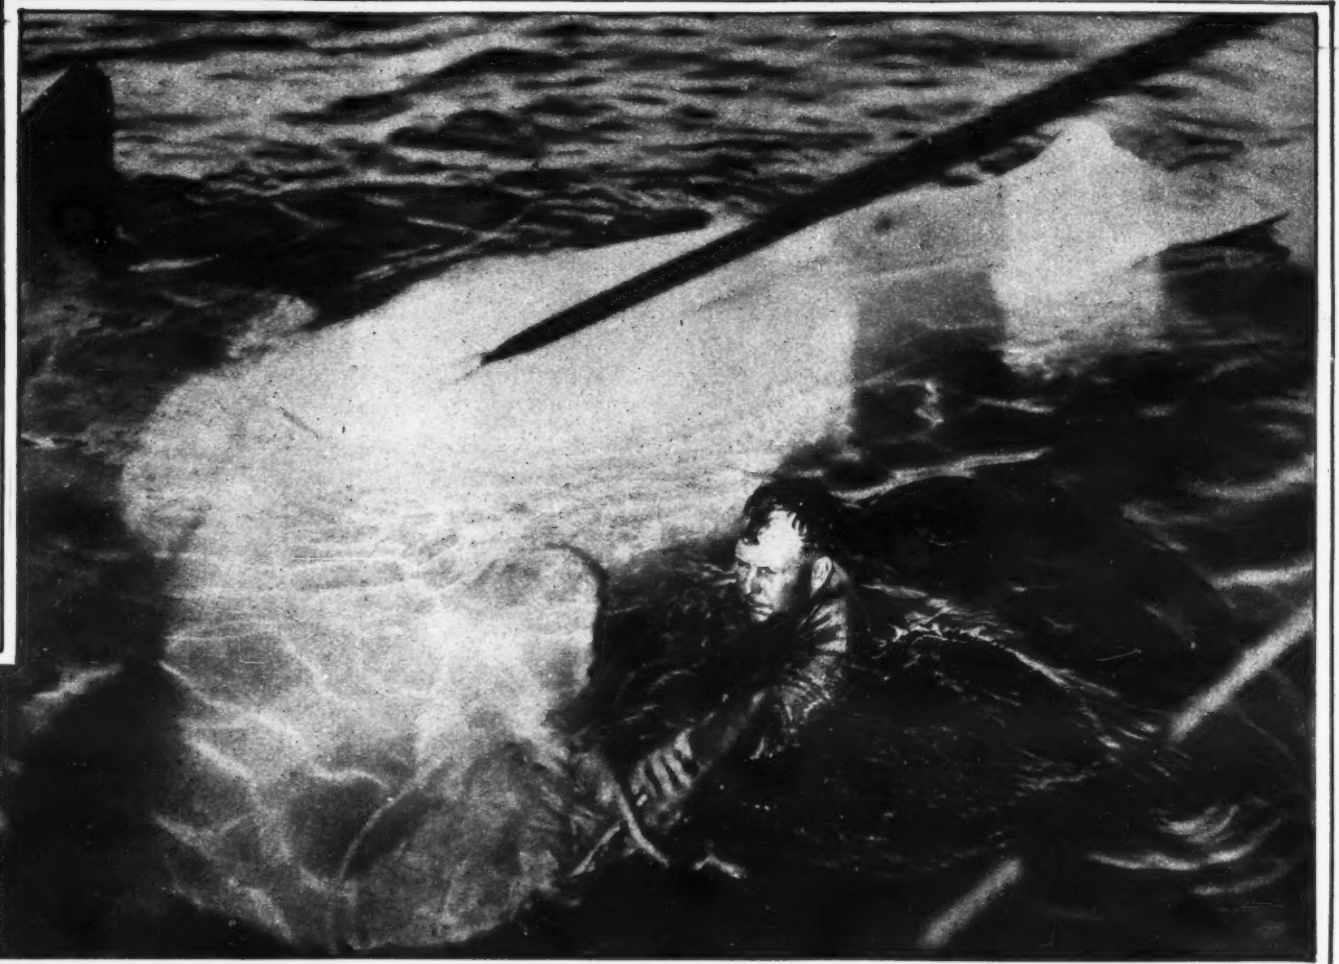

SEA DENIZEN

Some days ago a huge sea monster, estimated to weigh over twenty tons, was landed at Long Key, Fla., after a struggle that lasted nearly a day, during which fifty bullets from a high-powered rifle were fired into it. The vitality of the fish, however, was so great that it did not succumb to this rifle fire, but was finally landed alive. It is said to be the first of its kind ever captured while living, and has been classified as belonging to the class of rhinodon known as "whale sharks." A former director of the Miami Aquarium and now connected with the New York Aquarium states that not a single bone or vertebrae of the rhinodon was in possession of any scientific institution. The importance,

A TEST OF NERVE AS WELL AS OF MUSCLE

To handle a twenty-three-foot python is no child's task, especially when to the weight of the reptile is added the powerful writhings of his muscular body. A group of attendants at the San Diego (Cal.) Zoo is here shown transferring his "snakeship" from one cage to a roomier one, despite his strenuous objections. (P. & A. Photos.)

therefore, of the catch from a scientific viewpoint is obvious. The fish fought desperately, and even though severely wounded, attacked the captain when he sought to secure it with ropes and chains to the wharf.

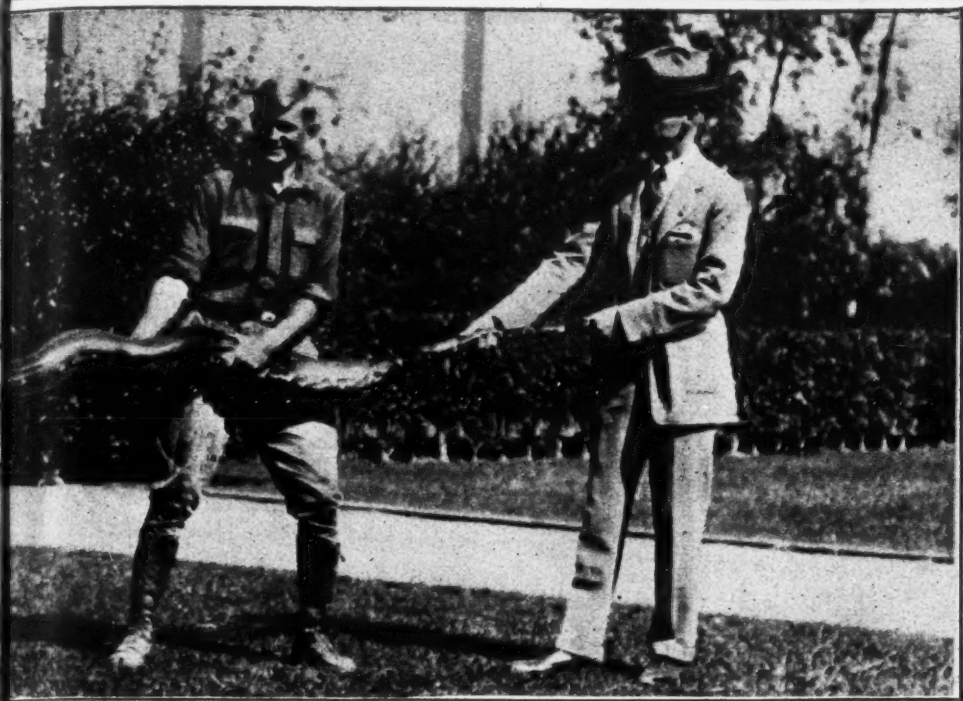

INDIAN RITES

On the second Friday of June in each year members of the Smoki tribe of Indians gather at Prescott, Ariz., for the performance of the snake dance, the catcina dance and the flute ceremony. The legends upon which these ceremonials are founded were old before any white man had dreamed of the new world across the western ocean. The catcina dance is an invocation to the gods of rain and fertility. The dancers are garbed in costumes and masks designed to express the characteristics of their tribal ancestors, and also more or less to symbolize the desire that the deities they invoke will bless their lands with peace and plenty. The snake dance is

SMOKI INDIAN SNAKE PRIEST AT ANNUAL DANCE

A feature of the Smoki Indian dance at Prescott, Ariz., which is calculated to give thrills to the most blasé observer. The snake priest handles venomous reptiles with the utmost unconcern and strange to say usually escapes unbitten.

DARING EQUESTRIENNE HAS A SPILL AT WESTCHESTER COUNTY HORSE SHOW

Miss Becky Lanier, one of the most expert riders of the younger set, shown being thrown from the saddle as her horse Down East stumbled at the first jump in the heavy and middleweight hunters' class at the Westchester County Horse Show at White Plains, N. Y. Her expert horsemanship saved her from being seriously injured.

one of the leading features of the performance and is calculated to arouse shudder among the observers. Very elaborate preparations are made for it in advance. There is an underground chamber where the snakes are kept until they are ready to appear twined about the neck, shoulders and arms of the officiating priest. Less repellent is the flute ceremony, a beautiful and little known observance which contains a hint of the actual history of the desert people and includes much of religious symbolism. The ceremony portrays the coming of a band of people who wish to live in the village of the snake and the bear people already established. After the more elaborate ceremonies come the mirth makers or clowns, whose aim is to stimulate laughter by their grotesque and ludicrous antics. Altogether it is a great occasion for the members of the tribe, who look forward to it as the outstanding event of the year. It also draws a vast number of tourists from all over the country, who watch with the keenest interest the quaint and sometimes startling features of the ceremonies.

MOST FAMOUS TRAIN IN THE WORLD

Reproduction of a painting by William Harmden Foster of the Twentieth Century Limited, than which perhaps no other train is so well known throughout the world. It reached its majority on June 15, that date marking the termination of twenty-one years of continual service between New York and Chicago. Apart from its speed and reliability, it is operated with all the safety compatible with modern railroading, and has a record of having carried safely 10,000,000 passengers since 1902. The painter has admirably conveyed the impression of tremendous speed and power.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE AWARDS ROOSEVELT MEMORIAL MEDALS

TEXAS FLOODS

View of Pearl Street, Beaumont, Texas, following a rainfall of more than twelve inches which recently flooded the streets of the town. This was the greatest rainfall in that section of the country for the last twenty-five years. Automobiles were able to navigate the streets with considerable difficulty, but pedestrians were forced to wade unless they were able to get boats or rig up a raft of some kind. An unusual number of cloudbursts and inundations have been reported of late in Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas. Traffic has been demoralized in the sections affected, and the money loss has run up into the millions of dollars.

HILARIOUS TARS

Full of enthusiasm are these bluejackets of the U. S. S. Pittsburgh, now on duty at Constantinople. The reason is shown in the hundred per cent. record indicated by the placard at lower left. The gunners of the ship made perfect scores at target practice in record-breaking time and the crew wins over $1,500 in prizes. Hence the joy of the men and the more decorous but plainly evident satisfaction of the officers. The one thing that has characterized the United States Navy from its beginning has been its remarkably accurate gunnery, and more attention is paid to this perhaps in battle practice and manoeuvres than any other feature. It was this that in the War of 1812 enabled the infant American Navy to conquer British frigates vastly stronger in men and guns.

VERMONT BEAUTY

When Burlington, Vt., was about to celebrate its 150th anniversary it hunted about for its prettiest girl and found her in the person of Miss Pauline McGreevey, here seen in the honor float of the parade. The celebration was attended by visitors all over the State.

"Lifetime"

(TRADE MARK)

Sheaffer's LIFETIME EBONY PEN, the most beautiful, well balanced pen ever produced.

In purchasing an automobile the most important feature to buyers is the engine. In Fountain Pens, the gold pen point is the engine. It is the most important and most expensive feature in the LIFETIME Pen. See arrow.

Sheaffer's LIFETIME gold pen point is unconditionally guaranteed forever. No matter how badly damaged it may be if you send your pen into the Factory a new point will be given without charge.

Why pay six or seven dollars for an ordinary pen when $8.75 will purchase a LIFETIME.

Makes five carbon copies easier and better than the hardest lead, yet responds to the lightest touch.

"Specially Constructed LIFETIME Band eliminates breaking of caps."

Of course, Sheaffer's LIFETIME, as well as being the most practical is the most wonderful and distinctive pen with its beautiful, lustrous ebony color, gold filled clip, lever and distinctive LIFETIME gold filled band on the cap specially made so as to eliminate the breaking. See arrow.

Buy the distinctive ebony gold trimmed LIFETIME Pen, it eliminates continuous buying and you always have the best.

You pay more for your hat or pair of shoes which are renewed every six months. Think of the low cost that $8.75 is when applied to a LIFETIME. Make the most economical purchase you have ever made and be assured of your signature never changing. Call at your nearest dealer; a demonstration will convince.

You are judged by your Pen and your signature which should be unchangeable—only with the "LIFETIME" Pen is this possible.

Ask your dealer to demonstrate our No. 46 Sheaffer Special, $5.00 pen, the best pen in the world selling for less than $8.75.
